RED CROSS FOURTH ROLL CALL

Help keep the Cloverport Chapter an Active Organization in peace times. Fifty cents of every dollar received from annual membership dues is retained by the Local Red Cross Chapter for work in Cloverport. The other fifty cents goes for national uses. You can join at any of the following places:

The Breckenridge News Office

Breckinridge-Bank of Cloverport

Wedding's Drug Store

J. C. Nolte & Bro.

Golden Rule Store

HALF YOUR DOLLAR WORKS AT HOME

Half of Red Cross Membership Dues Retained by Local Chapters. No Solicitors For This Campaign.

If persons who desire to renew their membership or join the Red Cross will inquire at five of the specially appointed business houses in Cloverport their dollar will be received, receipted and turned over to the local secretary at the end of the Fourth Red Cross Roll Call Campaign which is November 21.

The places where you may leave your dollar are: The Breckenridge News Office, Breckinridge-Bank of Cloverport, J. C. Nolte & Bro's store, Golden Rule Store and Wedding's Drug Store.

Soliciting in three sections of the city are Miss Mary Joe Mattingly at the Murray Roof & Tile Company; Mr. Ira D. Behen at the L. H. & St. L. R. R. shops; Mrs. Marion Weatherholt on the Hill.

The membership committee of the local Red Cross society which Mrs. Eliza Board is chairman, has not arranged for a house to house canvass to be made this year. So it is left with individuals to volunteer and give in this campaign.

The Red Cross society in peace times is allowed to retain fifty cents of every dollar collected for annual membership. The money is used by the local chapter for relief of the poor, sick and afflicted, in fighting diseases etc. The Red Cross society is an organization that any community cannot afford to be without in peace times as well as war. Hence the local committee urges all of the people of Cloverport to respond to this Roll Call.

ATTENDING STATE BAPTIST ASSOCIATION.

Rev. E. C. Nall, pastor of the Cloverport Baptist church, Mrs. Nall and son, Edward Nall, Jr., and Mrs. C. E. Lightfoot, Mrs. Frank Perry and the Rev. R. L. Shirley, of Walton, Ky., are in Owensboro, this week attending the General Association of Kentucky Baptist.

YOUNG BOY DIES.

WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT US.

The Breckenridge News, Cloverport, Ky. Gentlemen: Enclosed find $1.00 to renew my subscription to the News. Your paper contains more real news than any County News paper that I have ever seen. I have shown the News to several here and they remarked, "I would not mind taking the county papers if they were full of news like that."

I am closing my third year on this the Greenwood Springs circuit and the 4th, Quarterly Conference asked for my return so I guess you will find me here for another year.

A new voter arrived at the parsonage election day but did not go to the polls, her name is Grace Lanair.

With best wishes for the News. I am yours truly, E. C. Driskell, Pastor M. E. Church South, Greenwood Springs, Miss.

FEWER HUNTING LICENSES ARE ISSUED

Only 111 Hunters Have Been Licensed So Far In County.

Hunting licenses for 1920 numbered 111 at the County Clerk's office in Hardinsburg, Monday. This is less than the usual number, according to County Clerk A. T. Beard. There is no account for the shortage of licenses issued unless it is the scarcity of game in this part of the State, said Deputy Clerk Hall.

The hunters from Cloverport were out Monday and Tuesday, the opening of the season. There is a new game law this year that prohibits the killing of a bag of more than twelve quails at one hunt.

APPOINTED POSTMASTER AT BIG SPRING, KY.

Big Spring, Nov. 15. (Special)—Mr. W. T. Griffith has received the appointment for the post office here. His daughter, Miss Catherine will be his assistant. They will take charge as he receives his commission.

PICTURE SHOW OPENS

Cloverport's new picture show was informally opened Saturday evening. The building adjoining The Breckenridge News Office, which Mr. C. G. Brabrandt has converted into a movie theatre, had its first show. The theatre has a seating capacity of 230 and will have shows three times a week.

FINE DISPLAYS AT COUNTY A. F.

Attendance Good In Spite of Cold Weather; Farmers Bank Holds Guessing Contest.

Members of the Farm Bureau of Breckinridge County and the citizens of Hardinsburg, who were the promoters of the County Agricultural Fair held in Hardinsburg, Thursday and Friday, felt amply repaid for the time and means given to the fair. Altho the weather was cold and somewhat disagreeable, there was a fairly good attendance the first day. And the second day, which was for the school children from over the county, there was a good representation of boys and girls.

There has never been a better display of corn, tobacco, potatoes and all kinds of vegetables that are grown here, on display at a fair in this county. The display of the season's crops were creditable to the community, and the display of school work from all the county schools was interesting and a credit to the teachers and pupils.

The woman's department had a number of handsome pieces of needlework, some fine canning and baking displays too.

There were dairy products and dairy cattle, hogs, mules and poultry entries.

The Farmers Bank and Trust Company had a guessing contest and offered three prizes to the persons guessing nearest to the number of corn and beans in a quart can. There were more than 1,000 guesses registered. The prize winners were: J. E. Waggoner, First Prize, $7.50, guessed 3324; Hannah Pile, 2nd Prize, $5.00, guessed 3321; J. T. DeJarnette, 3rd Prize, guessed 3331.

The Bank of Hardinsburg and Trust Company gave a silk American flag to the St. Romauld's High School which had the best display of school endeavors. The Bank gave three $5.00 prizes to Raymond Cruse, Boys' Pig Club contest; Herschel McCoy, Boys' Club and Miss Edna Jennings, for fancy work and canning.

The prize of $3 for the best display of paper cutting, mounting and general primary work was awarded to the grades pupils of Mrs. J. R. Randolph in the Cloverport Public School.

The Breckinridge County High School lead in all the Physical Education contest.

A complete list of the prize winners will be published in next week's issue of The Breckenridge News.

GIVEN A SURPRISE PARTY BEFORE LEAVING FOR NEW HOME IN CLOVERPORT.

Kirk, Nov. 15. (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. R. Anthony were pleasantly surprised Sunday when their friends and neighbors gave them a farewell party on the eve of their departure for their new home in Cloverport. The guests brought baskets filled with dainty eatables.

The guests who enjoyed the day and the sumptuous feast with Mr. and Mrs. Anthony were: Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Anthony and children, Ethel and Robert; Mr. Ed Anthony and sons, Hardie and Franklin; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dooley and children, Eddie Monroe, Mildred Bell and Alvin B.; Mr. and Mrs. Nat Kissinger and daughter, Mary Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony have resided in Kirk fourteen years. They sold their home to Mr. Coomes, and with their grandson, Eddie Dooley, went to Cloverport, Tuesday to reside.

ATTENDANCE INCREASES IN MEADE COUNTY H. S.

The increased attendance at the Meade County High School has made it necessary to employ another teacher, and at a meeting of the County Board of Education Monday, Mrs. Ella D. Gregory was elected as assistant. She will assume her duties about Dec. 1. The Meade County High School is now in "Class A."—Meade County Messenger.

BAPTIST REVIVAL IS CONCLUDED

Large Congregation At Final Service Sunday Eve. Free Will Offering Amounts to Nearly $250.

Sunday evening concluded the two weeks revival meeting held in the Cloverport Baptist church. It was one of the largest congregations during the meeting, the Methodist and Presbyterians having united in their services with the Baptist.

For his concluding sermon, Rev. R. L. Shirley, the visiting minister, had for his subject "The Greatest Figure of the Ages." Going back through all the ages, Rev. Shirley brought out the great leaders of art, science and literature, their talents and achievements. He brought out the fact that these were great figures on earth, but there was none so great through all the ages as the Saviour, Jesus Christ. He made his final appeal for repentant sinners to accept this Saviour. Two little girls gave their names for membership in the church when the appeal was made.

As a result of the meeting there were seven additions to the Baptist church by baptism and four by letter.

It was announced at the close of the meeting that approximately $250 had come in through the collection plates. This amount covered the current expenses of the meeting and left a handsome purse for the visiting minister. It was the largest offering ever made in a revival service during the history of the church.

Rev. Shirley expressed his appreciation of the splendid cooperation that the christian people of the various denominations gave in this meeting. He told his hearers he was happy to have been with them and worked among them, and before the benediction was received there was an old fashioned Methodist hand shaking.

Rev. Shirley will return to his home in Walton, Ky., this week after attending the General Association of Kentucky Baptists in Owensboro.

H'BURG GIRLS HOLD B. B. CHAMPIONSHIP.

Hardinsburg, Nov. 15. (Special)—Hardinsburg basket-ball girls defeated the Elizabethtown girls last Saturday 13 to 3. According to Prof. Schultz of B. C. H. S., this gives Hardinsburg girls the championship in basket ball in this section of the State. These girls have not been defeated this season.

MR. ED WHITEHEAD UNDERGOES OPERATION IN O'BORO.

Mr. Ed Whitehead, who was taken suddenly ill early Saturday morning with kidney trouble, was removed to the Owensboro City Hospital Sunday where he was operated on. The operation was very successful and Mr. Whitehead is reported to be improving. He was accompanied by Mrs. Whitehead and his son, Byron Whitehead.

REPUBLICAN IS GIVEN OFFICE OF CIRCUIT JUDGE

Frankfort, Ky. Nov. 10.—Over the protest of C. C. Turner, attorney for Judge J. K. Roberts, Democrat, the state board of election commissioners, at a special meeting this morning issued the certificate of election as circuit judge of the Twenty-third judicial district, composing Breathitt, Estill and Lee counties, to Samuel Hurst, Beattyville, Republican, who was elected on the face of the returns by 205 votes.

Search still is being made for a ballot box which is said to have been thrown in the Kentucky river in a Breathitt county precinct. Breathitt is a Democratic county, Judge E. C. O'Rear, counsel for Hurst, insisted that as Judge Roberts was filling a term by appointment his term expired with the election of Hurst, who, he said, is entitled to take office immediately.

The commission agreed with Judge O'Rear's views.

THANKSGIVING DAY PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY THE PRESIDENT.

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Wilson issued a Thanksgiving proclamation tonight, saying "in plenty, security and peace our self-reliant people face the future," and setting aside Thursday, November 25, for the usual observance. "We have abundant cause for thanksgiving," said the president. "The lessons of the war are rapidly healing. The great army of freemen, which America sent in the defense of liberty is returning to the grateful embrace of the nation and has resumed the useful pursuits of peace as simply and promptly as it rushed to arms in obedience to its country's call."

TREASURERS LETTER MOST AMONG HER BIRTHDAY GREETINGS.

Miss Mary Ellie Hardin, of Lodi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hardin, celebrated her ninth birthday anniversary on Armistice Day, Nov. 11. Among her gifts which Miss Hardin treasured most was a letter from her brother, J. M. Hardin, of Charleston, W. Va. This was his greeting:

Dear little Sister: I have thought of you many times today and of this day nine years ago when I walked in to take my first peep at you. I was then just two years older than you are now, but it surely doesn't seem that it has been so long.

I would surely love to be at home today for I guess you will have a big birthday cake and perhaps a party and I am sure we would have a fine time.

A very memorable event took place two years ago on your birthday. The Yankees finished up with Kaiser Bill. I wanted to send you a little present but don't know what you would like most so I am enclosing a two dollar bill, you can get anything you like or put it with your bank account whichever you prefer.

If this little gift which I send as a token of my love and remembrance of your birthday pleases you equally as well as it pleases me to send it, it will make you very happy even tho it isn't much.

The cherished hope of your brother is that you live a long and useful life and that you will be blessed with happiness through the whole of it.

With love to you and all the rest I remain, your brother, J. M. Hardin.

MRS. CHAS. CLARK DIES OF SENILITY

Like Good Old Times--

"BACK TO NORMALCY IN PRICES"

THERE is a changed look on the faces of our store friends, these days --brighter, happier, more enthusiastic, when they see the goods we show and when they learn the new prices.

It seems like years that we had to face the startled look and then the patient expression of tired endurance, as prices were quoted on all kinds of goods. We had the same experience, every time we went to market. Every price seemed forbidding, and often impossible; but we had to pay the big prices, or fail to supply you with wanted goods. Those have been hard years on all of us. But now, those hard days are past!

We're fighting the way back to NORMALCY in prices, and shopping, this month, is a GENUINE DELIGHT.

We are delighted to have such splendid goods to show you, and such low prices to quote you.

Back in the past is the painful time of "doing without things;" now the enjoyable time is here to POSSESS THE THINGS WANTED SO LONG, and secure them at PRICES IT IS SO GRATIFYING TO PAY.

In every section of our store THE NEW LOWER PRICES RULE. Many goods have been newly bought on the lower basis--others we have reduced in price at once, because we want to GET BACK TO NORMAL PRICES AT ONCE, and are willing to take the big loss that we knew had to come, and be ready to do profitable business again when these goods are gone.

Also, we realize that every dollar we lose becomes A BIG SAVING FOR OUR FRIENDS, and by taking the loss now, our customers may enjoy a full season's use of the goods, instead of the half season, if we waited until January.

Our Entire Store is Full of Splendid Economies

RHEUMATISM PREVENTED HIM USING ARMS TO FEED HIMSELF. RECOMMENDS 40

Augusta, Ga., May 20, 1919. "I suffered with rheumatism and indigestion and at times could not use my arms to feed myself. I tried every remedy I heard of with only temporary relief. I was advised to try Number 40 For The Blood which I did with splendid results. While I am not entirely well I feel like a different man and expect to continue Number 40, believing it will cure me. I have told several of my friends of 40, which they are taking with great results. I cheerfully recommend No. 40 to anyone suffering from any blood, liver or stomach trouble, or general bad health." Wesley Royal. Witness to signature, J. M. Haynie. Made by J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind., 40 years a druggist. The best druggist in your neighborhood sells Number 40, but if it happens that he does not, send direct to J. C. Buy Toys Early

Don't take a chance of disappointing the little tots this Christmas morning. Buy now, while stocks are complete and the selections are at their best. It is a fact that thousands of children were sorely disappointed last Christmas when they opened their bright little eyes, expecting to see the favorite toys they had so trustingly hoped Old Santa would bring them. And their disappointments were, in most every instance, due to carelessness upon the part of their elders who delayed too long in informing Santa Claus just what the kiddies wanted. Consequently, the jolly old man did not know in time that little Jane wanted, above all things, a doll with pretty brown eyes; or, that Bob had set his heart upon having one of those easy-running coaster wagons. When at last Santa did find out just what was wanted, how sorry he was that there was none left.

Don't let this happen this Christmas. Shop Early! And what a variety you will find here at "The Christmas Store." Everything everybody wants in great abundance now. Our orders were placed early and we are in splendid readiness to help Old Santa bring happiness to all his little friends.

HELPED OUT REIGNING BULL

Kindly Act of New Member of Herd Something the Keepers Had Never Seen Before.

Usually when a new bull is taken into the buffalo herd at Golden Gate park in San Francisco his standing is promptly decided by a challenge from the head of the herd. The newcomer either wins the fight and in turn is exalted to the rank of sovereign or he is defeated and shown his place. But a new bull, Mogul, recently proved to be an exception. He was two years old, a fine example of what a young buffalo should be, and he seemed thoroughly content to mind his own business and to let the other bulls mind theirs. No one would have known that there was a new buffalo in the herd.

One morning the keepers saw that there was something in the air. Mogul was sniffling round the reigning bull. They were apart from the herd, heads down, and were moving round slowly. It was the queerest beginning of a bullfight that the keepers had ever seen. It appeared as if Mogul would knock out the old bull with one toss.

As they moved round and round Mogul seemed to be hounding the other bull in the eye, and the other bull did not seem to be making the least resistance. Then they pulled apart and Mogul put down his head.

The old bull had a bunch of thorny cactus sticking over his right eye, and Mogul was hounding it off as best he could with his clumsy short little horns. Finally, after two more attempts, circling round as before, he got the cactus off, and each moved away about his own business.—Youth's Companion.

Value of Snakes.

Most people have a decided shrinking from snakes, which is not to be wondered at in tropical countries, where their bite is venomous and often fatal. But the grass snake ought not to be confounded with the rattlers, cobras or pythons. It is as harmless to humanity as a frog and a good deal more useful. No greater enemy to bugs is in existence. And slugs are among the most hurtful of garden and field pests. They keep down the numbers also of such other pests as mice, shrews and other small rodents. But as slug destroyers they deserve to be cherished rather than massacred at sight, which is their usual fate.

ON THE JOB EVERY DAY

Red-Blooded Men and Women Are Seldom Sick.

WATCH YOUR BLOOD CONDITION

If You Look Pale, Feel Gloomy and Run-Down, Take Pepto-Mangan and Build Up.

You see men and women who are never sick. They work hard, look robust, eat heartily and enjoy life. They have plenty of rich, red blood. That is why they are never ill.

People who try to get along with weak, impoverished blood always have a struggle. They go from one sickness to another. Children the same way.

If you keep your blood rich and red you'll enjoy full vigor. Disease has little chance to develop in healthy blood. As soon as you feel run-down take Pepto-Mangan for awhile. It will feed your blood with the ingredients needed to create a good supply of red corpuscles.

Pepto-Mangan is sold in both liquid and tablet form. Take either kind you prefer. They are alike in medicinal value. But be sure you get the genuine. Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's." The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," should be on the package.—Advertisement.

Monumental "Toppers."

Though there is a revival of the silk hat, which many people thought the war had made extinct as a species of headdress, few would argue that it makes a fit subject for the sculptor. Yet there are several top-hatted statues about. One at least is in the United States. It is a statue of President Lincoln. He is bareheaded, but his "topper," a very unfashionable specimen, is carefully laid on the seat at his side. But perhaps the funniest specimen is in the Central square at Glasgow, Scotland. It represents a respected citizen, James Oswald, member of parliament, and he carries his "topper" in his right hand, held firmly by the brim and upside down. The street urchins find this "topper" irresistible. If the policeman is round the corner they play pitching pebbles into Mr. Oswald's hat. Some of them are expert at the game and the hat has to be emptied of stones quite frequently.

Englishman on Papal Throne.

Pope Adrian IV was by birth an Englishman, and the only one of that nation who ever occupied the papal chair. He was a native of Langley, near St. Albans, in Hertfordshire. He was born before A. D. 1100, his real name being Nicholas Breakspear. He was said to have left England as a beggar, and to have become a servant or lay brother in a monastery near Avignon, in France. Here he studied with such diligence that he was elected abbot in 1137. He was made cardinal bishop of Alba in 1146, and went to Denmark and Norway. Upon his return to Rome Nicholas was unanimously chosen pope against his own inclination, in November, 1154, holding that post until his death at Anagni, September 1, 1159.

ONE ON MAMMA

Ethel—Say mamma, can I have some more pudding?

Her Mother—I'd be afraid to eat any more of that tonight if I were you.

Ethel—Well, some people are naturally more afraid of getting their desserts than others are.

Americanism

By LEONARD WOOD

Citizens by birth or choice of a common country, that country has a right to concentrate your affections.—George Washington's Farewell Address.

GEORGE WASHINGTON made no distinction so far as citizenship was concerned between the native born and the foreign-born American. In the words quoted from his farewell address he takes it for granted that both are alike in their heart devotion to the common country.

Washington shows by the other words of the sentence quoted that America should not be dependent upon the "whim of love" of its citizens, native born or foreign born, but that it has a right to demand loyalty and concentration of affection.

There are men today who seemingly believe that, even though living under the protection of a land enjoying its beneficent laws and its opportunities, they may or they may not, as they will, yield to it unswerving loyalty. The country has become their own either by birth or by their expressed desire through the process of naturalization. If they do not like it they can leave it but while they are citizens by birth or by choice the country has a right to their loyal service.

Washington's words are a compelling chapter head for a lesson in Americanization. There are some men, and women too, who in this day take a light view of the sacredness of the ties of country. The masses of Americans of course are patriotic and the word covers the entire field of devotion, but there are those here and there, in considerable numbers in some places, who plead what might be called a self-determination of conduct and who would loose themselves and try to loose others from the bonds which hold them to their duty to the country.

Washington believed in the future of his country. He knew how well the Fathers had builded and he believed that the foundation and structure would withstand the assaults of time and human enemies. Recently the assaults have become more persistent and more vicious. The assailants are not Americans even though they may have been born here or may have come here to go through the mockery of acquiring citizenship. It is something for Americans to know the nature of the enemy in order that they may overcome him.

Synthetic Vinegar and Acetic Acid.

Acetic acid is now used in great quantities in making acetate of cellulose for airships. Before the war this was obtained by distilling wood, but it no longer suffices. A synthetic way of making acetic acid was discovered and now the price is much lower than it used to be.

The process is simple; it calls for the production of acetic aldehyde by a reaction of water with acetylene, and the oxidation of the aldehyde gives acetic acid.

Three French companies are now using this process and La Nature says they bid fair to drive the distillers of wood out of the field, even planning to produce a synthetic vinegar that shall be much cheaper than the natural article.

Birds That Burrow.

Persons are not accustomed to think of birds as burrowing animals, but the puffed answers to that description. It is a chunky little fowl, less than a foot high, with a large and powerful beak. For a home it scratches a hole in the ground sometimes as much as four feet deep. To capture a puffin one must go digging. It is rather a job; and, inasmuch as the bird bites and claws fiercely, one is likely to suffer in the process. Thus the creature has maintained its numbers on many a lonely rocky, where other species of wild fowl have been killed off and exterminated.

Must Have Known What Was Coming.

"You remember the real estate man who used to advertise that buying your own home was better than paying rent."

"Yes."

"Well, they certainly knew what they were talking about, didn't they?"

EUROPEANS WANT TO LEARN U. S. CANNING METHODS

France Learned American Canning Style Now All of Europe Is After It.

All the world before long will be canning American style, if the present rate of progress keeps up. Last year France asked the loan of some canning specialists from the United States Department of Agriculture to teach them the purely American art of home canning. The results were so gratifying that the same group asked to return this year to give further instruction. They went, and their work everywhere in France was attended with gratifying results.

The Director General of Agriculture in the little Ruchy of Luxembourg hearing of the method of preserving fruits and vegetables being taught the French, asked of the American canning experts could be lent to Luxembourg when they were through in France. This was arranged, and the first two weeks in September found the Americans teaching in Luxembourg how to can and dry garden products and how to can meat and fish. From Luxembourg the demonstrators went to Holland, where at Amsterdam and other places a series of lectures were given. At the request of the British Department of Agriculture, the canning specialists then went to England and gave demonstrations before the English Institute workers. One of the group is now in Denmark and another in Egypt. Wherever American canning methods are taught the response and appreciation is most gratifying.

Spiders as Companions.

Of all creatures to choose as pets spiders seem to be the strangest. Yet many famous men have formed real friendships with spiders. Beethoven, when studying the violin at the age of seven years, had a spider so accustomed to him that it would crawl on to his arm while he was practicing. Of Paganini it is said that whenever he played a certain air on his violin a spider approached him and stood still listening until he had finished. Gaetly, author of "Richard Coeur de Lion," tells of spiders that used to perch motionless upon the piano while he played.

Some Ordeal.

"What's the matter? You look pale and feeble."

"Been through quite an ordeal. Was up to Flubdub's house last night."

"Well?"

"And drank some home-made wine manufactured by his wife and smoked two of his Christmas cigars."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

WIDOW TAKES PLACE OF COBBLER HUSBAND

When a mummy O'Brien, a Cincinnati cobbler, died recently, his widow took over the business and is now conducting a very flourishing trade among the folks of her neighborhood. Mrs. O'Brien often helped her husband in the shop and she is now a very efficient cobbler.

WORK TOLERANCE AND FAITH.

While business is rapidly putting itself on a basis which promises much in the next few years, we are personally finding it a little difficult to adjust ourselves. We are asking just what are going to be the controlling factors in our lives from now on. We have seen intense patriotism; we have seen unpardonable profiteering; we have seen gigantic tasks accomplished and we have seen wilful waste. Our emotions have been given some pretty severe handling and now when there appears to be an opportunity to get them under control again, we have forgotten how the trick was done.

At least until such time as we grow accustomed to handling our own emotions once more, let us think about three words that are going to be written large in the future scheme of things—Work, Tolerance and Faith.

Let us work harder. Nothing great has ever been accomplished without work. The easy paths always lead downward.

Let us be more tolerant—of other people, of other methods, of other nations, of other religions. The mind does not stand still. It must grow, either narrower or broader, and a narrow, ingrowing mind is about as unfortunate for the man himself as it is for those with whom he comes in contact.

And above all, let us have more faith. More faith in ourselves in these United States of ours in our business in the decency and common sense of our fellow men.—Public Service Monthly published by Taylor-Logan Co., paper makers, Mass.

SENTIMENTALLY "MOIST"

That man has never become reconciled to America's being "dry" is answered by 2148 men of affairs in this country who favor a liberalization of the law in order to permit the sale of light wines and beer, while there are 1723 men who are opposed to the liberalization.

A well known banking concern of New York has compiled a geographical summary to get a comprehensive survey of the political and economic conditions of America. One thing learned from this summary is that a large portion of the country is sentimentally "moist". There is work yet for the prohibitionists.

Don't forget to pay your dollar to the Red Cross. Let it be a thank offering.

Now this is just what co-operation means pure and simple helping one another put the wheels of your business together so they will all cooperate and carry your products where you can get the best prices.

SUNFLOWER USED FOR SILAGE IN PLACE OF CORN

Sunflowers are being extensively grown for silage in parts of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana where climatic conditions are such as to make corn growing for silage uncertain. Sunflowers yield as high as 7 or 8 tons to the acre, and when cut green for silage have not developed enough wood in the stalks to seriously impair their use for cattle feed. Growing of sunflowers is being encouraged by the county agents, and extensive tests of the action of silage on sunflowers are being made at the United States department experiment station at Redfield, S. Dak.

MILLION JEWS REPORT-ED TO BE COMING TO U. S.

Denver, Col., Nov. 9.—Preparations for aiding Jewish immigrants to settle on modernly-equipped farms in the United States are being made at the National Council of Jewish Women, in session here.

Speakers predicted more than 1,000,000 Jews would come to this country from Europe during the next year. A program of "meeting and directing this tide of immigration to make the newcomers a national asset" was given as the chief task before the convention.

FOX HUNTERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

Five hundred fox hunters, including delegations from every Southern State and from Ohio, New Jersey, Indiana, New York, Colorado, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts, Wisconsin and Panama gathered last week at Crab Orchard, Ky., for the annual convention and meeting of the National Fox Hunters' Association.

HOTELS LIKE PROHIBITION.

Hotels were supposed to be pretty hard hit by the prohibition regime. Now according to the president of the Southern Interstate Hotel association, most hotel proprietors would not go back to the unrestricted sale of liquor if they could. Very few of them would like to see even the sale of beer and light wines resumed. He adds, "the most rabid proponents of liquor admit their business is much more easily conducted since John Barleycorn was laid to rest."

The illicit distribution of liquor to hotel patrons, at first quite troublesome, is being reduced steadily.

Prohibition has benefited the nation's hostilities in two ways. In the first place, most proprietors decided to improve their side lines, such as barber shops, candy and magazine stands and souvenir sales. To their surprise, they found that these side issues brought in a much larger profit than their bars had returned formerly. The second benefit is in the operation of the hotels, which is much easier and less expensive under a prohibition regime. The handling of guests and the management of employees have both improved. There are fewer parties at late hours, requiring a large force of employees. Guests are less querulous. Breakeage of equipment is lessened. Employees themselves are more reliable and efficient.

Patrons, too, are gainers under the dry rule, for efficient employees mean improved service. In the old days, the public paid indirectly for the inefficiency, the extra large corps of employees and the breakage bills. Hotel costs are higher now than the public likes or believes necessary, but one hotel proprietor says they are lower than they would be had liquor remained on sale.—Owensboro Messenger.

TIME TO LOOK FOR MITES.

This is the time of the year to be on the constant lookout for the presence of mites on the fowls, and particularly in the poultry house. These insect pests not only lower the vitality of the birds, and thus render them liable to disease, but their presence has a decidedly bad effect on egg production. Frequent spraying of all cracks and crevices of the house and undersides of the roosts with kerosene or 5 per cent carbolic acid will greatly help to eradicate mites, and thus all to the comfort and general health of the birds.

MAY RESTORE CHESTNUT ORCHARDS.

Chestnuts orchards which have been practically annihilated by a blight of Japanese origin may be restored through efforts of the United States Department of Agriculture. Ten years experimentation has shown that it is possible to cross the chiquapin, a dwarf chestnut with the Japanese chestnut, which is blight resistant, and that the hybrid trees thus produced are quite resistant to the disease and yield nuts of good flavor and quality.

A Golden Wedding Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Roland A. Smith, of Stephensport, issued invitation to seventy-five of their friends to a twelve o'clock dinner on Wednesday, November 10, in observance of their golden wedding. There were about fifty who made a personal response to the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Smith for dinner, and several more of their many friends called at the home in the afternoon to extend congratulations.

The home was prettily decorated in yellow. Yellow chrysanthemums, to which had been added other beautiful flowers, the gifts from friends, were part of the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were assisted in receiving their guests by Mrs. R. A. Shellman, of Stephensport, and Miss Ella May, of Cloverport.

In the dining room the long table had for its center-piece a vase of yellow chrysanthemums, and at one end was a wedding cake with the dates "1870-1920" on it. This was the gift of Mrs. Nora Wagner, of Louisville. Another wedding cake with fifty golden candles was presented by Misses Eva and Eliza May, of Cloverport.

At twelve o'clock the guests entered the dining room and there they were served a very sumptuous dinner, prepared to the "queen's taste," and served in the hospitable style for which Kentucky is noted. After the dinner several of the guests made toasts to Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

In the afternoon, the Misses May and Miss Susie Warren, of Ammons, Ky., delightfully entertained the visitors with several vocal numbers.

It was just such a day as Wednesday, a bright and crisp November day, fifty years ago that Mr. and Mrs. Smith, the latter who was Miss Cinda Hall, were married in the same little hamlet of Stephensport. The Rev. J. H. Lennen, whose death occurred a short time ago, performed the ceremony. The bride's maid of honor was Miss Idell Smith, deceased, a sister of the groom, and the best man was Mr. George Jolly, of Owensboro, who could not be present for the golden wedding.

For fourteen years, Mr. Smith was the inn-keeper at Stephensport, he was also wharf master during the steam boat days, hence he and Mrs. Smith have a large circle of friends. They were the recipients of telegrams, letters and presents from many different States on their golden wedding, sent by friends whom they made in their younger days.

Those who presented their personal compliments from out of town were: Mrs. John D. Babbage, Mrs. C. W. Hamman, Misses Eva and Eliza May, of Stephensport; A. X. Kincheol, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Beard, Mrs. A. M. Kincheol, Miss Nancy Kincheol, of Hardinsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Moorman and Miss Louise Moorman, Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Harned, Misses Ruth and Mary Ann Harned, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. D. Moorman, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. H. H. Henninger and daughter, Ava Belle, Garfield; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Bassett, Raymond; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith, Elizabethtown; Mrs. Guy Smith and Mrs. Nancy Payne, Louisville.

Compliments presented in the way of gifts came from the following: A. X. Kincheol, $5 in gold. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Moorman and Miss Louise Moorman, Garfield, $5 in gold. Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Smith, Garfield, $5 in gold. Dr. E. C. Harned and family, Garfield, $5 in gold. Dr. A. M. Kincheol, Mrs. Kincheol and daughter, Hardinsburg, $5 in gold.

SEA-BORN ELECTION BABY NAMED HARDING

New York City, Nov. 10.—The first sea-born election day baby arrived yesterday by the Scandinavian-American liner Hellig Olav, bearing quite naturally, the name of the President-elect, followed by the surname of Gaucuz. The nautical stork flew aboard on election night after a wireless had made it certain that Senator Harding had won, and the informal christening took place the next morning.

The passengers contributed a purse of $400 to the mother to help her transform him into an educated American.

WIVES ARE SOLD ON CREDIT IN BRITISH BECHUANALAND

Wealth of a native in British Bechuanaland is measured by the number of cattle he owns.

A rich man has a big herd of cattle a poor man is lucky to have sheep or goats. These form a medium of exchange. Wives are bought with cattle.

Present "market" quotations for wives are 10 or 12 head of cattle. Among 125,000 members of the Bara-Cattle raising is the chief industry long, Bangwaketsi, Bakwena and Bemalets tribes of the Bechuanas living in the vicinity of Mafeking and the vast Bechuanaland protectorate to the north and west.

A good many husbands with families of grown children are still in "hock" for their wives.

Buying wives on the installment plan was the only way to make the wedding bells ring after the rinderpest plague in 1896. Rinderpest a peculiar animal disease, almost exterminated all the cattle, over 1,000,000 head perishing.

Wives were bought on long-time credit. And many haven't been paid for yet.

Poverty-stricken chaps have practically no cattle only sheep and goats. You have to be content with a second-rate wife if that's all you can offer.

There isn't much growing of mealies as among the Batlapi Bechuanas in the Taung District. Natives plow and sow, but the crops are meager. Only once in a blue moon—notably in 1908-1909—the harvest is so plentiful that the natives are almost swamped by it.

Mafeking, which is 225 miles north of Kimberley and 190 miles west of Johannesburg, is in the top corner of British Bechuanaland. But it is the seat of Government for the adjoining Bechuanaland protectorate. The latter is still a British colony and not a part of the South African Union.

A resident commissioner, appointed by the King and responsible to the Colonial Office in London, rules the protectorate through the chiefs of the various tribes. The protectorate extends nearly 600 miles north to Victoria Falls, an area of 275,000 square miles, including a large part of the vast Kalahari desert. There are only 1692 white inhabitants, compared with 125,000 natives.—Baltimore Sun.

OLD STEAMBOAT BELLS

Many Were Scrapped During The Civil War

Owners of steamboats fifty years ago had great pride in having fine bells that were used in announcing the time of departure of the steamers. The captains generally rang the big bells half an hour before leaving time, and their deep tones could easily be heard for two miles and further on quiet, clear days or nights.

In old days to have a fine boat minus a special bell was like attempting to operate a circus without an elephant. Some of the famous bells of the Mississippi River boats were on the J. M. White, Robert E. Lee, Natchez, James Lee the First, Imperial, Pennsylvania, T. P. Leathers, Belle of the Coast, and after the civil war there were fine ones on all the Anchor Line steamers.

The Lee Line followed this custom. On their steamers in the early days and until recent years they had some of the finest bells. Many of them are said to have had a finer and deeper tone than some of the older ones. The Kate Adams, now operating in the Memphis and Rosedale trade, possesses a very fine toned bell; so does the Harry Lee.

Practically all the bells used on the big steamers prior to the civil war were taken from the boats and scrapped by the Governments. The North as well as the South needed the copper in them.

For many years there was a small bell foundry in Louisville, operated by a man named Kay. In it were moulded the most famous bells heard along the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Kay is said to have come to the United States from Scotland. He had some experience in casting bells in his home country and established his little place in Louisville before the civil war. He designed all the big boat bells and charged about a dollar a pound to mould one. He used a mixture of material that gave them a splendid tone, but the owner of the bell usually put in several ounces of silver, often dumping into the melting pot so many ounces of silver bullion.

The weight of these bells averaged from 1,500 to 2,000 pounds. They were placed on the hurricane roofs of the boats with a cord extending to the pilot house and another dropping down to the lower deck, so that the crews could ring them when necessary.

A few of the bells were removed from the boats and used after the war. Several fell into the hands of wealthy planters and were installed on plantations. It is said the bell of the J. M. White, until a few years ago, was used on a Louisiana plantation.

In days when steamboating was good at Memphis it was a great sight to visit the levee at a time when the boats were getting ready to depart. The captain began tolling the bell in time to notify shippers and passengers that the steamer was getting ready to leave. The deep tones were easily heard up town. If a passenger was late, or if there was a late day load of freight for the wharf, both went helter skelter down the levee. Some shippers knew the tones of different boat bells. They could distinguish them as easily as they could whistles. All steamers use big bells today. It is necessary when the pilot desires to have the channel sounded or when he wants to call the captain from his room in the Texas to the forward deck.—J. H. Curtis in Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

THE SONG OF NATURE.

(Reprinted from Lexington Leader, and the Kentucky Kernel.)
I dwell in the fields of the earth,
A satisfied minion of mirth,
The songs that I sing
Have a lyrical swing,
That gives the whole world a new birth.

My handclasp is friendly and true,
It gives every man his just due—
As thru life it goes,
Not a stranger it knows—
I extend it, my comrade, to you.

The spirit of God swells and moves
In all living things that I love,
My religion is pure,
'Tis solemn and sure,
For Nature's creeds come from above.

Ah, sing me a song of the trees,
Naught equals the voices of these,
As I kneel in the wood,
They are best of the good,
And the face of my Maker I see!
R. F. Peters.

"GOOD-BYE, OLD BESS"

Alfred Wheaton Sweet in "Farm Poems"

There's no use in talking, Ann,
I've got to sell "Old Bess"
If I expect to do some biz'
And get there with the rest.
I'll have to get a Gomobile,
Or go flying through the air,
Or sell the farm and fixin's
And give up in despair.

I drove my team in town today
To sell some fruit and eggs;
And Bess you know, is a fine old horse
With four good level legs.
The way I put her o'er the road,
I'll bet would make you smile;
But a load went by in a buzz machine
And had me beat a mile.

When I drove up to Johnson's store
He said, "Si Brown, you're late;
I took the other fellow's stuff,
I had no time to wait.
The world is moving quicker now,
I'll give you just a tip:
Trade your horse for a flying machine
And make a faster trip."

But somehow, Ann, I cannot sell
Old Bess, so good and true.
She brought me down to clover dell
When I came courting you.
We'll keep her here with us, dear wife,
Let foolish people fly;
She's earned with us a peaceful life
Until we say "Good-bye."

WOMAN'S DRESS

Unlike a good many censors of feminine dress and deportment, President Eliot or Harvard does not charge the women of today with a deliberate intention to clothe themselves in an improper manner; he holds them to be victims of the autocratic authority of fashion. The result shocks President Eliot. He told the Unitarian women of Boston the other day that!

"We can see the way women dress on any Boston street.
"Our mothers would call it an indecent way."

"These young women don't want to be indecent.
"They merely went to be fashionable and pretty."

"But the clothes are immodest. And they have a psychological effect. They tend toward immodesty in manner."

Undoubtedly the women of Boston clothe themselves about as other American women do. In the past the feminine population of the Massachusetts capital was composed of women, young and old, of good sense, good appearance and good manners; a population fully entitled to classification on the same plane with New York's in wholesome and attractive qualities. We never encountered the jocosmith's favorite bluestocking Boston girl; we don't believe she ever existed. Dr. Eliot's assertion that these women and their daughters have come to dress in a manner which might be described as "indecent," and that their dress makes for "loose morals," is hard to credit.

If Boston morals are loose it is a mighty serious thing. It is not a thing to jest about. We are thankful to say that New York morals are not loose; the men and women of this city maintain themselves in self-respect and mutual respect, following the fashion when it suits them, disregarding it when it doesn't suit them. On Fifth avenue and on what Dr. Devery called double Fifth avenue, and on all the cross streets and other avenues, the good taste of New York women is disclosed in their dress, their independence is revealed in their demeanor, and their virtues are discovered in their bearing. Some of them wear long skirts and waists cut high; others wear short skirts and expose their chests like athletes; but all of them carry themselves modestly and properly.

A great deal of nonsense is talked about women's dress and women's manners and women's morals. The facts are spread before everybody who cares to examine them. The standards of American women have always been high, and they are as high today as they ever were. Changes in industrial conditions have brought changes in women's environment, have thrown them into daily contact with men in a manner not known to their mothers and grandmothers, but these changes have not impaired their ideals or lowered the excellence of their habitual good conduct.

SAFER TRAVELING ON "AMERICAN DESERT."

Every year the "American Desert" takes its toll of human life. In many parts of it springs, wells and water holes are few and far between. Three years ago the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, under a small special appropriation by Congress, erected signposts in the worst portions of our southwestern deserts, giving directions and distances from watering place to watering place. This life-saving work of the Geological Survey was supplemented by a survey of these deserts in cooperation with the California Department of Engineering, the results of which are being published in a series of guidebooks. A guide just issued, entitled "Routes to desert watering places in the Salton Sea region, California," by

BALLARD URGES EXTRA

SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

TO RAISE ROAD FUNDS

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 12.—The Courier-Journal tonight quotes Lieut. Gov. Ballard as saying he will request Governor Morrow to call a special session of the legislature for this winter to arrange for funds for building roads.

Lieut. Governor Ballard said he would obtain these funds through taxing coal and oil largely, the newspaper says. Coal, Mr. Ballard said, should be taxed ten cents a ton which would yield the state about $3,000,000 annually. Oil he said should also be taxed "a plenty."

Something else must be done to raise road funds Ballard said he believes as a substitute for the law taxing liquor fifty cents a gallon which was held unconstitutional by the court of appeals. This law was expected to yield the state $15,000,000 annually.

Eskimo Inherently Honest.

The Eskimo regards honesty as paramount. He will never misrepresent facts, and although he may want to dispose of an article badly he will rather depreciate it than run the risk of over praising. A man who lies or deceives another is severely punished. An Eskimo will not permit a fellow man to need for food or clothing, once he has enough for himself and his family. War, to the parka-hooded men of the North, is unknown. They decide differences by staging dance duels and outwitting each other, and old men act as judges to decide winners. In this way honor is satisfied. Brutality is unknown. In combating nature, fighting the walrus, the whale and the bear with primitive weapons, the Eskimo displays unusual coolness and plans his way out of danger with extreme self-possession.

Huge Hallstones.

There are numerous well-authenticated cases of hallstones weighing half a pound and more, but claims which go far beyond this meager weight are made. Stones of six to eight pounds are said to have fallen in Namur in 1719, and the missionary, Father Hue, who ought to be a credible witness records the fall in Tartary in 1843 of a block of ice as big as a millstone, which took three days to melt. In May, 1902, a Hungarian village reported an 1,100-pound block, requiring eight men to move it, and in Tippecanoe time one as big as an elephant was said to have fallen near Serapatam. These are "some" hallstones.

Autograph Hunter's Coup.

Autograph hunting sometimes proves a most profitable pursuit. Ludovic Picard, a French Bohemian of the '50s, made a steady income out of it for several years.

One of his most successful coups was accomplished with a letter in which he posed as "a member of the unhappy race of the unappreciated who is meditating suicide and seeks for counsel and aid in this hour of sore distress."

This drew a number of celebrities, including Beranger and Helme. Lacordaire sent him ten closely written pages, which were promptly converted into cash.

Dickens also fell a victim of his wiles and took the trouble to answer him in French. Eventually Picard was shown up in the press by Jules Sandeau and had to seek another occupation.

CARTER'S LANDING

Away up Salt River in a hospital for political cripples, wrecks, convalesce etc., ten days after the election. Well wasn't it awful Mabel? When we awoke there was Cox and the League of Nations all piled up in a heap. At a distance we could see Chris Brandenburg, Edward Gregory, Sharky Gregory, Curt Weatherholt, loading their boat for Salt River. Feathers and dead roosters lying about. The wreck seems to be complete. We thought the dear girls all loved chicken, but we will have to pass them up. Their tastes seems to be for corn this election. We love the old chicken still. Cock-a-doodle-doo. We have this consolation: everything that happens we can lay it on the Republican administration.

Joe S. Mattingly, a well known lumber dealer of Huntingburg, Ind., blew in here last week. He has a scheme in his head if it works will bust up the Bachelor's Club. He is selling a receipt for marrying off old bachelors. Now Joe is a natural born lumberman. This is only a side line. If this receipt will do what Joe claims it will he will not only become a rich man but will go down in history. The wonder work of James Hawkins, treasurer of the club, Herman O'Bryan, secretary and old Mull became so enthused they bought two. Frank Weatherholt and Edgar Weedman, two well known business men of Cloverport went down to Dr. Charlie Lightfoot's office to have their upper lip examined, to find out whether they were old enough to join the Bachelor's Club. Doc's ex-ray machine has failed to work since the election, and the examination had to be postponed. They will probably be initiated in the near future.

We will have to take off our hat to Tom Basham of Hites Run. He predicted this land slide early in the summer. They say they had to sit up with Sam Wheatley, a business man of Cloverport, a few nights after the election. Say Uncle Ben how did Lodiburg go? Did you get caught in the landslide?

INFANT DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. WILL DOWELL

DIES OF BRONCHITIS.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Dowell and took from them their sweet little baby, Little Hattie was born July 16, 1919 and died Oct. 20, 1920. She had been ill of bronchitis for two months. She is survived by her parents, four sisters, Blanche, Florah, Janie and Vinie Dowell, and three brothers, Herman, Roosevelt and Lamont Dowell. Besides a host of relatives.

The funeral was held at the home Sunday at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Charles Priest. Burial took place in Rosetta church cemetery.

Hattie has fallen asleep;
She is resting at last.
The pulse has grown still,
And the fever is past.
Hattie suffers no longer
In heart or in brain,
And the pain that so racked
Her shall not come again.
She has fallen asleep
O, mother, father, 'tis past
Thank God as you weep
She is resting at last.

BASBALL CHAIRMAN

OFFERED $50,000 A YEAR

Judge Landis Thinks It's a Lot of Money.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Judge Kennesaw M. Landis, who has been offered the chairmanship of the new baseball commission at an annual salary of $50,000, spent the day "thinking it over."

"You know that is a lot of money, $50,000 for a seven year contract," said the Judge tonight. "I have always been used to a moderate salary, but $50,000 a year is almost unbelievable."

"When will you decide that you will accept the offer?" he was asked.

"As soon as I have made up my mind," was his smiling enigmatical response.

Judge Landis' selection to head the new board of control is regarded by baseball men as the greatest move the men financially interested in the game have ever made. The magnates interested think so much of his ability they are willing to let him be the sole judge of all decisions without any assistance on the board.

LOUISVILLE MAN GAINES 17 POUNDS

Says Tanlac Proved to Be the Very Thing He Needed. And Has Relieved Him of All His Troubles.

"I have actually gained seventeen pounds in weight on three bottles of Tanlac," was the statement made by James H. Johnson, of 1725 Crop St., Louisville, Ky.

"For some months I had been in a badly run-down condition. My appetite was very poor and even the little I did manage to eat fermented and floated me up with gas until I was in perfect misery. My nerves were so upset I could never get a good night's sleep. I felt tired and worn out all the time, just had to force myself to work and was going down hill every day.

"I remembered that about two years ago when I was in a run-down condition and my kidneys were worrying me a great deal, I had taken Tanlac with wonderful results, so I decided to try it again. I commenced improving right away and in a short while my appetite was so good my wife said she could hardly cook enough for me to eat. I can eat meat just anything I want without having a particle of trouble afterward. My nerves are in fine shape. I sleep well and that tired, worn out feeling is all gone."

Tanlac is sold in Cloverport at Wedding's Drug Store, in Kirk by Mattingly Bros., in Addison by L. D. Addison, in Ammons by Wm. H. Dutschke, and in Stephensport by E. H. Shellman.

Sand—$6,000 a Ton.

Wilmington, Del., has a dozen of the most expensive sand piles in the world. It costs $6,000 a ton, says the Portland Oregonian.

The reason for this, and incidentally a reason for high-priced gloves, was revealed the other day by a prominent leather merchant.

Wilmington is the chief glazed-kid center in the United States. About 20 per cent of the raw skins entering the United States come from China and are imported at the rate of about $1 a pound.

"What, then," asked the merchant, "would be more natural to the cunning celestial than to increase the weight of the skins by sprinkling sand on them?"

That is just what happens and the result is huge piles of sand at receiving plants here, where the hides are dried and prepared for manufacture.

CHARMING FROCK OF TAFFETA

Taffeta is made up in many charming ways this season and one of them appears in the quaint frock pictured. It opens at the front over a chemise of lace, that terminates in a point below the waist and has elbow sleeves finished with bands of velvet ribbon. Velvet band on the skirt and girdle and a bow and ends of narrow ribbon complete it.

MARK ADAPTABILITY OF MAN

Automobile, Airplane, and Submarine
Prove His Right to Rule Over the Natural Kingdom.

In the competition for survival, leaf-eating insects must be green, like their prey, or perish; woodpeckers, like the bark; the tiger, striped like the sunshine through the rushes. The fittest survive. "A black sheep" is more than a figure of speech. The struggle for existence demands his murder in the flock of white, conspicuous in contrast. Adaptation or death.

The crafty little chameleon is the prince of color adapters. Faculties used, are sharpened; if neglected, they waste away into vestigia—the appendix in man. Eyes of moles and burrowers are slowly closed with skin and fur. The fluffy little lap dog has weak eyes. But cavern toads, with eyesight almost gone, will recover dim perception in slowly graduated light. And night-prowling cats improve their sight to penetrate shadow land. Man noticed the pupils of his eyes contract in sunshine, and enlarge in darkness—saw the bat, and understood.

On all sides he saw this principle at work: Bears, fur coated, restricted to the cold; the dolphin, in the sea; the eagle, the bird of freedom, alert always to escape in flight. He therefore devised the automobile, the airplane and the submarine, to jump from mountain top to ocean bottom.

This adaptability of his body of diversified surroundings has made him monarch of the natural kingdom.

Russia Land of Holidays
Almost Innumerable Occasions When All Work Is Suspended and Time Spent in Pleasure.

Russian people observe rigorously all religious holidays—five at Christmas, ten at Easter, three at Carnival, and almost every week one extra day, when an anniversary of some saint is celebrated. On these days everything is closed, and nobody works. The six weeks of fasting preceding Easter are strictly observed by everybody, and the more devout do not even eat eggs or drink milk, and do not use sugar, because it is refined with blood. The last three days of Holy week are still more respected, for no food at all is consumed. For Easter Sunday, very large cakes, sometimes three or four feet high, are cooked with beautiful ornaments on the top, and eggs skillfully painted. Both cakes and eggs, with other eatables, are brought on Easter eve near the church and placed all about on the ground. After the midnight mass a procession of priests and choirs comes out and walks around the church, blessing all the food, which is arranged before them as in a market.

Easter Sunday and the two following days are dedicated to paying visits. Every man calls upon his acquaintances. Visitors are obliged to eat and drink wherever they happen to go, otherwise they will offend the host.

RUSSIA LAND OF HOLIDAYS

Almost Innumerable Occasions When All Work Is Suspended and Time Spent in Pleasure.

Another great advantage over Braille is that a book of 200 printed pages may be transferred to a record six inches in diameter. The same book reproduced in Braille would take about 1,000 pages. The Braille book of 1,000 pages would entail the expenditure of a considerable amount of money by the person desiring to purchase it. The same book in the form of the typophone record, the inventor says, would cost from 2 to 5 cents. The typophone itself would call for an initial expenditure of about $15. So that a blind person could build up an extensive library at an insignificant cost compared to the expenditure necessary to purchase the same library in Braille.

Here the question naturally arises as to why use a sound alphabet to be reproduced by the typophone rather than to reproduce in the first instance the spoken words directly from an ordinary phonograph record. Dr. Herz's answer is that it would take 400 phonograph records to reproduce what can be reproduced on one six-inch record by means of the typophone. Then the spoken word on the ordinary phonograph is difficult to comprehend. The great expense involved in reproducing a book of 200 pages on 400 phonograph records is obvious, to say nothing of the space that one such "book" would occupy. A large apartment would be none too large to store the works of Dickens and Shakespeare reproduced in this manner. The entire works of Dickens and Shakespeare reproduced on typophone records would occupy a cylindrical box about six inches high and six inches in diameter. The cost would be trifling in comparison to the cost of the books in Braille or in ordinary phonograph records. In Braille the works of Dickens and Shakespeare would fill a large room.

ENABLES BLIND TO 'SEE' BY EAR

New Device Substitutes Sound for the Touch System.

DOTS ARE USED FOR WORDS

Inventor Calls It "Typophonia" and It Is Read on a Phonograph Record—Unlike Raised Letter System, a Library Occupies Small Space, and Price Is Cheap—Blind Vienna Doctor Offers Invention Free for Use of Afflicted.

The blind and those whose weak sights prevent the use of eyes for reading may now read by sound instead of touch as a result of a recent invention by Dr. Max Herz, a Viennese specialist in heart diseases, who arrived in the United States recently. Dr. Herz came here at the request of a group of individuals and organizations interested in ameliorating the condition of the blind. He demonstrated his invention several days ago for the first time at a convention of instructors for the blind at Baltimore, where it was reported to have been received with enthusiasm.

The invention is based on a sound alphabet devised by Dr. Herz from the Morse code, eliminating the dash and using the dot in various combinations. A phonograph record is made of a story in the sound language. The record is placed on an instrument resembling a phonograph equipped with a sound box and the blind person, after becoming familiar with the alphabet is able to read by ear rather than through the fingers as in Braille, the method in use at present.

The alphabet is based on the single dot, two dots and four dots used in various combinations. The phonograph record is made in the following manner: Using an instrument like a typewriter, the person engaged in the work will punch holes in a narrow tape, each group of perforations being a letter in the dot alphabet. The tape is then run through an electrical machine and the perforations are transferred in sound to a master record. Duplicate records are then made in any quantity.

System Called Typophonia.

Dr. Herz, who is a member of the faculty of the University of Vienna, calls his system typophonia, or reading by sound, and the instrument the typophone.

Typophonia has many advantages over Braille, according to the explanation made by the inventor. First, it is easy to learn. This was evidenced by the fact that when Dr. Herz tapped out his improvised alphabet a visitor who heard it for the first time and who was familiar with the Morse code repeated almost all of the letters correctly when he heard the dots tapped.

On the other hand, says Dr. Herz, Braille is learned with difficulty, especially by adults not born blind. The sense of touch is not so acute as that of hearing. It takes months to learn Braille, and to master the embossed dot alphabet of Louis Braille means a year or two of study on the part of many who pursue it.

When Dr. Herz's sight began to fail three years ago and, forbidden to use his eyes to read, he began the study of Braille, though a man of science and accustomed to intense concentration for long periods of time he was unable to master the method for a year or more.

The system of typophonia may be learned by any person in a fortnight, according to Dr. Herz. It need not take that long, and he tells the story of a young woman in Vienna who mastered it in a day, although he says this is exceptional.

Another Advantage Over Braille.

Records have already been made by Dr. Herz in German, English and Polish. He was subsidized to a limited extent by the Austrian and Polish governments in his experiments. The first German records were Grimm's Fairy Tales and the first English record was Oscar Wilde's "The Happy Prince and other Tales."

Dr. Herz came to this country at the request of M. C. Migel, chairman of the New York state commission for the blind, William Ziegler, Jr., and W. G. Holmes, editor of the Matilda Ziegler Magazine. Representatives of the following organizations also sent letters inviting him:

The Red Cross Institute for the Blind, the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, the Association for the Instructors of the Blind, the American Association of Workers for the Blind, the Matilda Ziegler Publishing Company for the Blind, the New York Association for the Blind, the Perkins Institute for the Blind, the Librarian for the Blind, Library of Congress and the American Printing House for the Blind.

When Dr. Herz first took up the study of Braille three years ago there was a shortage of thick paper in Austria, the sort used in printing Braille characters. He thereupon invented a method of stamping the characters on any thickness of paper by means of perforated zinc stencils. He made an inexpensive frame for the sightless persons use and by means of which he is able to print his own Braille books at little expense.

In his medical specialty, heart disease, he has invented machines in connection with mechanotherapy. The apparatus bearing his name is said to be in use all over the world. A small pocket instrument for measuring blood pressure is among his inventions.

Dr. Herz is planning to sail for Europe on July 21. He will stop in London to visit Sir Arthur Pearson, the blind publisher. The physician's wife was born in New York, but she did not come with him. He was accompanied by a brother and his daughter, who have assisted him in his experiments.

SHOT DOWN 300 WOMEN

Villa, Unable to Find One Who Fired at Him, Ordered All Shot.

Three hundred women camp-followers attached to the Mexican government forces have been killed by the order of Francisco Villa, the bandit leader, according to a newspaper report.

The women were captured by Villa during an encounter, the paper says, and after their seizure, they were lined up and inspected to see whether there were any masquerading soldiers among them.

One woman fired twice at Villa but missed. Unable to locate her, Villa ordered the entire body of women herded together and shot down.

volumes. Six thin typophone records costing from 12 to 30 cents would bring within the purview of the blind person the contents of the great book when the cost of the work in Braille might be tremendous.

The reproducing instrument has the appearance of a small phonograph and is kept in a wooden case like a traveler's typewriter. The weight is 2 or 3 pounds. Like the phonograph there is a large circular disc about 9 inches in diameter. Above this disc is another disc, about the size of a six-inch record. This disc receives the typophone record. Connecting the two is a reduction gear. The "reader" places the record in position and fastens the needle on the sound boxes as in the ordinary phonograph. In order to begin reading the book he turns the large disc and the words of the story are then tapped out in the improvised code. The reduction gear causes the record to rotate at a rate one thirty-sixth as slow as the lower disc is turned. The operator may "read" as slowly or as rapidly as he desires merely by twirling the lower disc to suit his ability to comprehend the sounds.

Recognizing that a "reader" may grow tired after perusing a few chapters Dr. Herz has contrived an ingenious "bookmark" that enables him to begin "reading" where he left off. A small clutch inside the wooden case clamps the bar holding the needle in the place where the "book" is "closed."

200 Models of Machine Made.

The present model typophone is the 200th Dr. Herz has made. It bears all the improvements and is without the faults that were embodied in the 199 discarded models. His primary purpose in visiting the United States was to accept the invitation by those interested in having him demonstrate his invention. He hopes while here to interest individuals or organizations to take hold of his invention so that the machine and "books" may be placed at the disposal of the afflicted, for the cost of manufacture or without cost.

The inventor feels that if out of his own affliction there can come some good to the millions similarly situated the loss of his vision will not have been in vain. He is not interested in the commercial exploitation of typophonia and stands ready to turn it over without cost to the philanthropic individual or organization which will undertake to give it to the blind and weak-sighted out of humanitarian motives, free from any suspicion of commercialism.

It is the dream of Dr. Herz that there may eventually arise in the United States an International Institute for the Blind, with sections for all the nations. By the system of typophonia he is of the opinion that the world of literature, science and culture may be opened to the afflicted. Records, he says, can be made in all languages. As most of the blind are poor, he insists that his invention must be given free of cost or at cost.

Record in Three Languages.

Records have already been made by Dr. Herz in German, English and Polish. He was subsidized to a limited extent by the Austrian and Polish governments in his experiments. The first German records were Grimm's Fairy Tales and the first English record was Oscar Wilde's "The Happy Prince and other Tales."

ARMY STATIONS TOLD TO RECRUIT 6,000 MEN

All Will Go To Division At Camp Travis, Texas.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Telegraphic orders were sent today to the army recruiting stations to recruit the Second Division to its full strength immediately. It was explained at the War Department that under the provisions of the national defence act one division of the army must be kept at full strength, and that the Second Division had been selected by the General Staff as the unit to be maintained at full strength.

The division, which is stationed at Camp Travis, Texas, is 6,000 short of its full strength, and the War Department said the recruiting service never before in time of peace had been given a similar task. Heretofore recruits for the Second Division have been drawn from the States of Texas and Oklahoma, but under the new order they will be taken from any place in the country.

Major-Gen. James G. Harbord, who was Gen. Pershing's first chief of staff in France, commands the division.

RUSS "SET STAGE" TO GIVE PROSPEROUS AIR

Moscow Made to Appear Busy to Deceive the English Visitors.

An attempt to make Moscow look a busy and prosperous city during the visit to that city of the English labor delegates is told by the Lettish Information bureau, whose press bureau at Riga has a special correspondent attached to the peace delegation in Moscow.

"The various institutions in soviet Russia had for a long time been busy in making preparations for the reception of the English labor delegates in order to show them Russia in attractive colors," says the correspondent.

In Petrograd where, as a rule, almost no people are seen in the streets, all the officials were ordered to take part in the reception. Theatrical representations and grandiose banquets were organized with the participation of actresses from the Marlinski and Alexandrovski theaters. The delegates were taken to Moscow in a special train, accompanied by Tcherkess soldiers in bright uniforms.

In Moscow, the day before the arrival of the English delegates, all the papers published strict orders issued by the military and civil commissaries setting out what everybody had to do and how to behave. On May 17 the tramway service in the city was suspended, all the cars being taken to the neighborhood of the Nikolayevski station, where, gayly decorated, they moved to and fro, trying to convey to the visitors the idea of busy traffic.

In the station all the motor cars from Moscow were mobilized, even the highest commissaries having to walk. On May 18 a parade was organized, but no private persons were allowed to be present. This is the way the bolsheviks organized the tragedy-comedy of the communistic paradise in order to deceive the English visitors as to the real state of soviet Russia.

Melting Silver Dollars to Make Change

Ten millions of dollars, all in silver, are being melted into silver bars at the United States mint, in Philadelphia. Later the bars are to be turned into dimes, quarters and half dollars. The government finds it cheaper to melt the dollars than to go into the market and buy silver, now selling at the highest price in many years.

Kills 51 Coyotes in Month.

Sam Marple, trapper, of Yuba county, California, during the month of May caught and killed 51 coyotes, for which there is a bounty of $5 offered by the county, according to his claim filed with the Yuba board of supervisors. There is seldom a month that Marple does not kill from twenty to forty coyotes.

Unanswerable.

Billy's little pal, Harry, had been fighting with the new boy, and, getting the worst of it, had run away. "Don't be a coward," advised Billy, "Go back and lick him." "He's bigger than me," blubbered Harry, "an', besides, he's given me two black eyes." "Well," roared Billy, "he can't give you any more, kin he?"

Remarkable Contrast in Revenues.
Government revenues since September, 1917, aggregate $11,481,100,000, almost equalling those for the 55 years preceding, which were $11,582,000,000.

TOWN DIED CENTURIES AGO

Segovia, in Spain, Has Signs of Life Only Part of One Day of Each Week.

Segovia is a dead city of Spain. There are dead towns in this country which both lived and died within half a century, and few that are much more than a century old. But Segovia died centuries ago, and it is as old as civilization in Europe.

The Romans built Segovia. It stands on a rocky ridge between two swift rivers—a compact little city of narrow streets and old stone houses crowded together. A mighty aqueduct, which was built by the Romans, still brings the city its water supply from the Guadarrama mountains. Segovia, high and narrow on its ridge, lies like a great ship in the plain, moored by its aqueduct to the distant mountains.

Segovia is a city of deserted churches. Long ago it lay in a sort of contested land between the region held by the Moors and that held by the Christians. Sometimes one held it and sometimes the other. Both built churches there. Now Segovia has lost so much of its population that most of these churches stand empty, despite the fact that Spain is a pious land. Some of them have been locked for centuries, and only the bats know the secrets of their dark interiors, where neither sound nor sunlight has been for so long. Others have attendants who will open their doors to the curious.

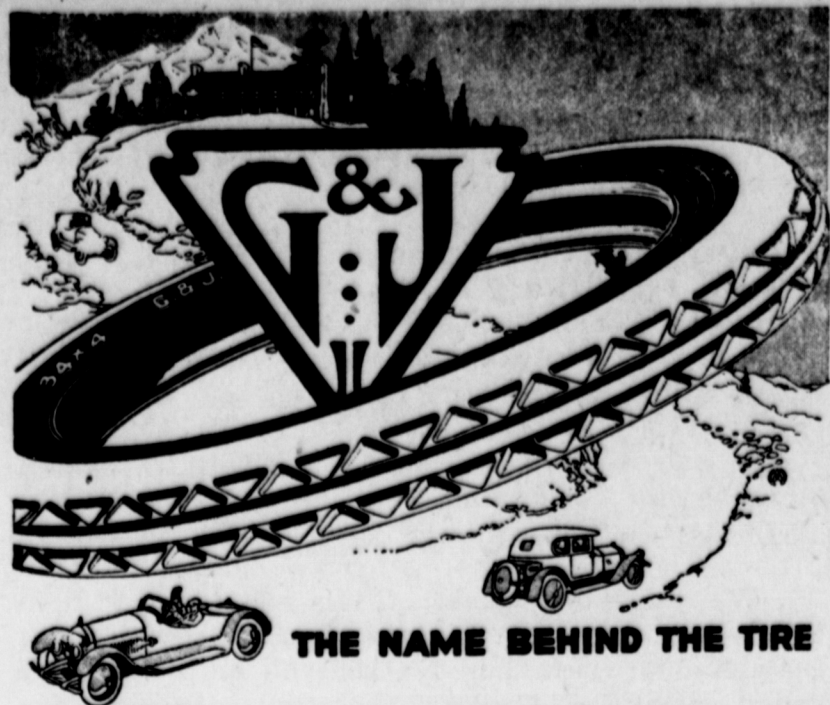

Once a week Segovia awakens. Peasants come to the city from all the surrounding country. They are primitive people who look like figures from the middle ages. There is laughter and color in the streets then. Bells ring and a few of the churches open their doors to worshippers. But by sunset all of the peasants are gone and Segovia goes to sleep for another week.

PEACE ARMY PLANS FOR 332,221 MEN

Washington.—The new tactical peace time organization of the Regular Army based on the Army Reorganization bill passed at the last session of Congress was announced today by Sec. Baker. It provides for one skeleton army in time of peace with a paper strength of 332,221 men. An army corps, under the new organization, will consist of 70,966 men, an infantry division of 19,385 men, a cavalry division of 6,417 men, an artillery brigade of 3,414 men and an infantry brigade of 6,153 men. The act providing for the new organization divided the country into nine corps areas, and in time of war or general mobilization this division would result in three armies, each of the tactical strength and organization announced today.

As the peace-time strength of the Regular Army is only 280,000 men, Mr. Baker explained that the National Guard and organized reserve would fill the gaps.

RAT-SNAP comes in cakes. Three sizes 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by Conrad Payne & Co., Cloverport, and B. F. Beard & Co., Hardinsburg—Advertisement.

U. S. ARMY BIG COST TO GERMANY

Expenses Are $73,466.70 a Day
France Maintains Large
Army at Germany's Cost

Washington, Nov. 8.—The American military in the Coblenz area of Germany is costing the German Government $73,466.70 per day, or upwards of $2,200,000 a month. The strength of the force on Oct. 7, the least figures available here, was 14,534 of which 603 were commissioned officers and 13,931 enlisted men.

From the beginning of the American occupation on the Rhine to June 30, of this year, the expense of the force aggregated $257,065,084.35. Up to June 30, Germany had paid $34,724,658.78 on account, leaving a balance due of $222,340,524.37.

Of the total expense of the American force to June 30, individual maintenance aggregated $197,603,000, general expenses $56,849,000 civilian labor etc., $2,471,000; surveys salvage sales etc., $115,000. As showing the great reduction of the American force on the Rhine, the maintenance cost for December 1918 was $34,344,000, compared with $2,204,000 in June, 1920. The maintenance of enlisted personnel in June of this year aggregated $1,885,600, commissioned officers $267,000 and animals $52,000.

France is maintaining a large army of occupation at a much greater cost to Germany, although the pay of a French enlisted man is much less than that of an American soldier.

The British occupational force has been greatly reduced, like that of the United States. The actual cost of the British and French forces is not definitely known here. Sec. of War Baker said today that no plans have been made for the immediate withdrawal of the American force from Germany.

MOONSHINE POURED IN STREETS OF HOPKINSVILLE

Hopkinsville, Ky., Nov. 9.—Between sixty and eighty gallons of moonshine liquor, which was confiscated in this county several weeks ago and which has since been kept in a cell at the county jail, was poured into the gutter under direction of W. J. Chiles, prohibition enforcement officer.

Forty gallons of the liquor was in wooden kegs, and this, had turned a reddish color. The rest of it was in glass fruit jars and had retained its clear complexion. The pouring out of the liquor attracted a large crowd.

A city child was enjoying his first glimpse of pastoral life. On a little stool he sat beside the farmer's wife, who was plucking a chicken.

He watched the operation gravely for some time. Then he spoke: "Do yer take off their clothes every night, missus?"

BAPTISTS HOLD GENERAL ASS'N

Opened in Owensboro, Monday
Continues Until Thursday.
New Moderator To Be Elected.

The ministers' Conference on Monday evening marked the opening of the Kentucky Baptist General Association, which is in session four days of this week at the Third Baptist church in Owensboro. Between 700 and 1,000 messengers, delegates and visitors are attending the association. The association proper had its first meeting Tuesday night.

Moderator, William M. Stallings, of Crestwood, Ky., will preside over the association meetings, and a new moderator elected as the present term of office expires this year.

Dr. J. T. McGlothlin delivered the annual sermon Tuesday evening. On Wednesday evening Layman W. S. Farmer will lead the discussion on "Stewardship and Tithing." Secretary O. E. Bryan will talk on "A World Program for Baptists."

The association adjourns Thursday night with the announcement of committees for 1921.

THE FAIRY BOAT

By Adele F. Woodard, Pres. National Motion Picture League.

Once upon a time Love-Fairy went to live in the heart of a great pink Briar Rose, and oh, how she enjoyed this beautiful home with the sweet fragrance of the rose about her. "Here I shall live always, I shall never leave this beautiful home," said she.

All went well for a while, but one morning the little fairy stretched and yawned and finally she sighed "Oh, dear, how tiresome it is to stay at home and do nothing! I must find something to do!"

She decided to go out at once. As she climbed down the thorny stem of her home she noticed that it had been raining during the night. The ground was covered in patches with puddles of water, like fairy lakes, and she noticed that right in the centre of one, a little ant house had been flooded! Quantities of mother ants and father ants and little baby ants were trying their best to swim ashore.

Love-Fairy stood watching the ants and wondering what she could do to help them, when she heard a faint voice calling to her. It was Briar-Rose! "Take this petal of mine," she said as she dropped a beautiful great pink one, "and put it on the water like a little boat, then get into it and sail out and rescue the ant families." Love-Fairy was delighted with the idea and she soon found herself sailing out on the fairy lake! The weary ants soon forgot their fright and eagerly climbed into the boat.

When they came to shore, all the big ants scrambled out and soon began to build another house. But the baby ants remained in the boat, sailing over the blue water, for the good fairy had spread her rainbow-colored wings for sails. And finally, after Mr. Sun had dried the puddle, so that there was none of it left, the baby ants found their new home all ready for them. Imagine how glad they were to snuggle down in their little beds and sleep that night!

Then Love-Fairy carried the beautiful rose petal back to Briar-Rose and, as she fastened it in place with her fairy wax, she said, "What a beautiful home I have to come to, and what a happy day I have had!"
